Update on Baccalaureate Degree Proposal

Chancellor Rubinstein had an opportunity to speak briefly with Representative Ford at an external meeting, and the representative expressed his appreciation for efforts already in process at the colleges with which he is now more familiar.

CCSNH Workforce Development Efforts

In board policy, Student Success is a standing committee whose second area of focus is business training and workforce development. The decline in enrollment of credit-bearing courses and degree programs due to the distinct needs of working adults indicates that opportunity exists in building bridges between non-credit and credit activities.

Ms. Lewis presented on the vision of workforce development at CCSNH, which includes enhancing collaboration between the colleges' business training centers and efforts regionally and across the state and developing a robust, strategic data and staffing infrastructure for workforce development.

Ms. Doiron provided an update on Apprenticeship NH and the badging initiative. Discussion followed regarding transferability and transparency of badging, the colleges' acceptance and encouragement of badging, and the metrics that will be needed to assess and grow the initiative.

President Williams left the meeting at 8:27 am and returned to the meeting at 9:23 am.

Greatest workforce challenges and opportunities include: developing infrastructure, systems and models (data, staffing, resource allocation); identifying and scaling successful programs (apprenticeship, badging, bootcamps, industry partners); and building awareness, visibility and engagement of employers, state agencies, and underserved & underemployed populations.

Discussion followed regarding learning from workforce development models that other state systems have successfully implemented.

Next Steps: Workforce Development

The committee discussed the importance of providing a visualization of these efforts, partnering with the legislature to advance this work, and the need to build effective data infrastructure.

Other Business

No further business was stated. The meeting adjourned at 9:42 am.

Respectfully Submitted,
