COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course will examine the use of social media marketing today. Students will gain the knowledge and skills needed to effectively use social media to market a business, and/or themselves as business professionals. Attention will be focused on efforts used through the Internet to connect and network with customers and other businesses through digital channels. Areas to be covered include customer service, building brand loyalty, expanding markets, and creating sales. Students will utilize a variety of social media, including blogs, wikis, LinkedIn, Facebook, Twitter, and more.

TEXT/INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS AND EQUIPMENT NEEDED: There is no assigned textbook for this course. All readings, videos, and lectures will be provided online through Canvas under each

Module, which corresponds to each week of the course as detailed in the Course Schedule on page 3 of the syllabus.

GRADING:

• 30% Weekly Discussion & Online Activities

Activities and discussions are conducted online and will be reviewed regularly to assess a student’s understanding of the material and continuous participation in the course.

• 20% Quizzes (2 at 10% each)

Students will take two online quizzes to assess understanding of the concepts presented in the modules. Each quiz will be set for a specified period and cover a specific group of modules. Quizzes are open notes, and students may use material presented in the course. Quizzes must be completed independently online.

• 20% Social Media Audits (2 at 10% each)

Students will conduct two audits of competitors to an organization chosen for the final project. The audit will use information from the course to observe and analyze the social media practices of the identified competitor.

• 30% Final Project: Social Media Marketing Plan

The course will culminate in a student’s understanding of the material and application of the course content to a social media marketing plan for an identified organization, to be chosen by the student with instructor approval at the beginning of the course.

ONLINE CLASSROOM EXPECTATIONS:

- Communication: You are expected to check your college email regularly (several times throughout the week) for any communication from your instructor, peers, or the college. Failure to do so could result in missed information about class, assignments, etc. and could affect your grades.
- Attendance/Participation: Attendance each week for class is required unless excused by the instructor. You are expected to log in each week and submit assignments and engage in class discussion forums. Failure to do so could result in removal from the class.
- Assignments/Late Policy: All reading is expected to be completed during the week that it is assigned to ensure quality online participation and deliverables. Due dates for each assignment are listed in the attached class schedule and will be posted in Canvas. Assignments are due on the due date. Work submitted beyond the due date will not be accepted. All assignments must be typed, checked for spelling and grammar, and submitted online through Canvas. Points will be deducted from your grade for typos, spelling, and grammatical errors and overall sloppy work.
- Submission of Assignments: It is expected that all graded assignments be submitted through Canvas to receive grading.
- Professionalism/Online Classroom Courtesy: Please refrain from using profanity or otherwise inappropriate language in any course material or discussion board.
- Cheating/Plagiarism: No form of cheating or plagiarism will be tolerated. Anyone caught cheating/plagiarizing will receive a failing grade on the assigned work and/or the course.
